

MARINE AIRCRAFT GROUP 16 COMMANDING OFFICER'S FAMILY READINESS VISION

Family Readiness is a cornerstone to mission readiness; the two are inextricably linked. As such, it is essential that our families have trust, confidence, and faith in the Marine Corps family to which they belong.

My Family Readiness Goals:

- Treat our families with dignity and respect.
- Keep our families informed with accurate and timely information.
- Convey to our family members the critical function they play in supporting the service member, the unit and the mission.
- Maintain a Family Readiness Command Team that is trained, informed, and responsive.
- Exploit creative and innovative approaches to connecting families with information and resources.
- Create and foster partnerships with internal and external supporting agencies.
- Maintain operational security and personal confidentiality.

Our operational readiness and subsequent mission success will be a direct result of our training and ability to execute our Unit, Personal and Family Readiness Program. Our families have sacrificed a great deal in the service to our country; we owe it to them to ensure they are ready, well informed and resilient.

"Mission First, People Always"

C. A. Blair
Colonel, U.S. Marine Corps
Commanding Officer, Marine Aircraft Group 16